M+M Industries is proud to introduce the M10x™ International Defense Rifle.

The future of firearm engineering is here: The M10X is a revolutionary defense rifle that thoughtfully combines the most successful engineering techniques, including the durability and precision of the standard work horse military rifles of the 20th century, and improves upon their design elements creating a new hybrid defense rifle that is operationally intuitive, universally understood, and is the simplest, most effective defense system available today.

The M10X is inspired by proven engineering techniques that have been separately mastered by each hemisphere in firearm production and it encompasses their finest capability and merges these existing ideas and bridges the gap creating one global firearm operating platform. Thus, the M10X is the next obvious step in firearm evolution.
