UM Tactical Introduces New Holsters

Lake Worth, Florida, October, 2017 – Building on there one of a kind UMH3 Tactical Holster System, UM Tactical is announcing 3 new holster designs that are specific to certain tasks. They are a new Inside the Waistband (IWB) holster, a new Outside the Waistband (OWB) design patent pending holster and a new Qualifier holster also design patent pending. Like the UMH3, these are all designed with usability in mind.

All 3 holsters are hand manufactured from Boltran 4332/ultra-high impact thermoplastic. The Boltran provides rigidity and durability to maximize serviceability. The material ensures long holster life and lightweight. Like all UM Tactical products, the new holsters are manufactured right here in Florida, USA. All 3 come with the necessary hardware including attachment screws.

The Qualifier Holster is designed to meet all law enforcement firearm qualification requirements. It comes with both a belt band and IWB clip so that it can be used both inside and outside the waistband. The holster can also be used for lawful civilian concealed carry. The Qualifier is manufactured in left or right handed models and fits many popular law enforcement pistols including Glock models 19 and 43 and the S&W Shield

The IWB is a somewhat traditionally designed inside the waistband holster that attaches with a sturdy clip. It is made from the same high tech materials as the others and is engineered for comfort. The IWB is manufactured in left or right handed models and fits several models including Glock models 19 and 43 as well as the S&W Shield.

The OWB is a fully ambidextrous carry system. It is designed for outside the waistband carry and can quickly be converted from left to right handed carry. The holster is mounted to the belt with an adjustable strap. The OWB fits 1911, Glock models 17, 19 & 34, Smith & Wesson M&P and similar full size pistols.

Brian Wilson, UM Co-Founder and Design Engineer said, “After our success with the UMH3, we started getting a lot of requests for more traditional holster designs incorporating our state of the art materials and manufacturing methods.” Wilson continued, “These 3 new holsters are in response to that demand. We are already at work on more models.”

The IWB is available now. The Qualifier and the OWB will be available October 16, 2017.

Wilson added, “Here at UM, we are dedicated to responding to the needs of all shooters. Nothing makes us happier than knowing we filled a need.”
